Message

The completion of twenty-five years is indeed a major milestone in the life of an educational institution. Maharaja Agrasen College, since its foundation in 1994, has earned very considerable appreciation for providing value-based education and for imparting the ideals of academic excellence, professional success, sense of discipline and high moral and ethical values, leading to the development of an integrated personality. The motto of the college 'Action Defines the Person' is reflected in its faith that education is a process of awakening individual potential for creative knowledge, inculcating in them the desire to excel in various spheres of activity. It is also extremely important that the college considers it to be its duty to nurture its students as sensitive people with strong values, who will leverage their individual achievements to strengthen the fabric of the community, the nation and the planet. Maharaja Agrasen College is known to have been discharging its duties in ample measure. I commend the noble vision of the Governing Body for infusing dynamism, inventiveness and optimism into the staff and students, besides assisting them in their pursuit of academic brilliance. On the occasion of the Silver Jubilee of the College, I extend my heartiest felicitations to the management, teachers and the students who have made Maharaja Agrasen College such a prestigious institution of learning.

The Silver Jubilee Year gives an opportunity to the college to celebrate its achievements and excellence and also to showcase its students' creative talents and skills. It is rightly said that the twenty-first century is the century of knowledge and we are witnessing now a revolution in information and communications technology. It is clear that we are going through a fast transition into a global society and economy and there should be opportunities in it for everyone. Being a country of 1.3 billion, with a median age of about 28, puts India at the center of any discussion about global development.

As per various researches and surveys India is one of the very few countries who have the potential to provide talents required for the emerging global economy. On the one hand it provides us with a golden opportunity to reap the demographic dividend, on the other it also puts our higher education institutions in a position of great responsibility, the responsibility to meet the demands of not only of our country, but also of the global economy. With the rapid growth of internet, computer, distance education and on-line education, learning too is at the threshold of a revolution and we must all strive together to make education the most vibrant and dynamic force to respond to the changing and challenging times and needs.

The progress of an educational institution is assessed not only by the academic excellence and professional success which the students achieve but also upon the role it plays in instilling discipline, sense of confidence, attitude of cooperation with others and principled commitment to the country and the people. Given the diversity of our country the vast geographical expanse, the multiplicity of languages, religions and traditions it is vital to ensure that our young minds develop a tolerant, accommodative, secular and integrative approach. College education has the most important role in the character-building of the students, as it is here that they imbibe the ideals of respect for elders, our culture and tradition, discipline and punctuality and also, most importantly, human values.

Learning is the most valuable and empowering experience. All of us should remember what Swami Vivekananda had said as to the ideals of education: 'We want that education by which character is formed, strength of mind is increased, the intellect is expanded, and by which one can stand on one's own feet'. It is in the ennobling process of character-building through education that we produce great academicians, scientists, statesmen and administrators, technological experts, successful industrialists, good sportspersons and eminent artists, that is to say, successful and committed citizens and ultimately, good human beings. In this great process of character-building, a crucial role is played by the teachers who train the future generations and are the path-breakers of the society and the nation. Truly, a teacher is a social reformer as the efficiency and quality of an educational institution ultimately rests on the teachers, who should be treated as the most revered 'Gurus'. A teacher is like a lamp that lights a hundred other lamps.

It is my hope that more and more young boys and girls will respect and uphold the law of the land, our public institutions and specially the sanctity of educational institutions in our country, so that we may have more informed and public spirited citizens. The colleges like Maharaja Agrasen College are the best institutions to educate such students, which will greatly benefit the country. On this occasion, I recall what Rabindranath Tagore once said: 'man's mind is deeper than the great seas, vaster than the endless space'. It is ultimately the seriousness, the devotion and the discipline with which students approach their learning that would shape their future, and through them, that of our country. My best wishes and warm greetings to you all on the occasion of the Silver Jubilee of our College. I wish you all success and a great future ahead.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Silver Jubilee Celebrations Committee Report

Maharaja Agrasen College has come a long way since its inception on 13 August 1994. With humble beginnings in shared makeshift premises in Mayur Vihar, which also significantly happens to be a historic site, witness to a fierce battle between the Marathas and the British, it was conceived with two courses, a handful of teachers and 310 students. The college shifted to a verdant 10 acre campus in Vasundhara Enclave in 2010 and has surged ahead with 10 courses and more than 2000 students, to become an institution of excellence which was awarded Grade 'A' by NAAC recently. Today, Maharaja Agrasen College is acknowledged as institute par excellence in higher education. Be it infrastructure or research and innovation, curriculum enrichment or best practices, the institute takes pride in its fast-paced development geared at providing holistic development for both students and faculty. The college is now in its 25th year and not only is it an occasion to celebrate but also introspect and plan for the years to come. Several initiatives were taken up this year to mark this special milestone. Some were commemorative while others geared towards changing needs and aspirations of the college community. The events and competitions organised were an attempt also to bring the various pillars of the institution together. Leadership and students, family and faculty, all joined hands together in cohesive synergy to mark this milestone. Following is a brief report of these events.

Silver Jubilee Logo Making Competition: Maharaja Agrasen College organised a logo designing competition on the occasion of the Silver Jubilee of the college. NCWEB(NON-COLLEGIATE WOMEN'S EDUCATION BOARD)

Education is an inevitable part of a living being that eventually contributes to development of a nation. Especially when it comes to educating a girl, it is one of the best investments her family, community, and nation can make. It is with this vision that Delhi University started the Non Collegiate Women's Education Board (NCWEB). The Non-Collegiate Women's Education Board teaching centre at Maharaja Agrasen College was started in June 2011. The academic session 2018-19 introduced online admission process, thus ensuring a hassle-free access to education for the students. At present the enrolment in Under Graduate courses at the Maharaja Agrasen College Centre of NCWEB is approximately 1250 and of which around 452 and 798 are in B COM and BA (P) respectively. With around 38 teaching staffs and a dozen non-teaching staffs, the centre has successfully completed the 52 days class schedule for the academic session 2018-19.
